At DeWitt's End

I had the privilege of attending the American Baptist annual region meeting in Effingham this past week. I don't always enjoy these kinds of meetings, but I really did enjoy it this time and I am encouraged with what is happening in the American Baptist world.

One of the speakers said something that really impacted me. He referenced two different passages from Exodus: Exodus 3:6 where God first appeared to Moses and Moses was so afraid that he covered his face; and Exodus 33:11 where it said that God used to speak to Moses face-to-face as one speaks to a friend. Then the speaker asked this question, and this is what really stuck with me: how do you go from covering your face out of fear to being so close to God that you are "a friend"?

It is a great question that really resonates in my heart. There are many times I feel the "separation" from God that Moses displayed when he covered his face in fear. There are many times I have wondered how I could possibly move from that position of separation and fear and, somehow, get closer to God – maybe close enough to actually be considered a face-to-face "friend" of God. The question hangs in my mind. How can I go make that transition?

The speaker didn't answer the question, he just left it hanging there for us to consider. I am still considering it. The problem is that the Bible doesn't tell us the answer. We see that God initiated the process by calling Moses to a task (leading the Israelites) and that as Moses responded, God began doing incredible things in Moses' life and revealed more and more of himself to Moses. But we don't see that Moses did anything to make it happen. God is the one who initiated the process and God is the one who transformed Moses from being a fearful shepherd who covered his face and made him to be a mighty spiritual leader who was a friend of God. Maybe that is the answer to the question. Maybe Moses didn't do anything to move from being separated from God to becoming a friend of God. Maybe God is the one who did it and that Moses merely allowed it to happen.

If that is the answer for Moses, then maybe it is the same answer for us as well. God wants to be in a close relationship with us. God has invited us. God has given His Spirit to live in our lives and to enable us to be transformed. Maybe all we need to do is let Him. Maybe all we need do is respond favorably to God's invitation and enter into the relationship to which He is calling us.

I am a work in progress. I'm not there yet, but I look forward to the rest of the journey. I pray that you will allow God's Spirit to take you on that journey as well. May He transform you so that you truly do become His "friend" as He reveals himself more fully to you in the days and weeks to come.

A fellow pilgrim on the journey to which God has called me,

Coming Sermons

Sermon Series on 10 Commandments:

Some of the small groups in the church are studying the book, The 10 Greatest Struggles of Your Life, by Colin S. Smith. Pastor Dan will coordinate his sermons beginning in October to address the topics covered by these groups each week. The 10 topics of this book are based on the 10 Commandments. He will attempt to address the topics on the Sunday prior to the week the small groups will address each chapter.

Oct. 2 “Invited Into A Relationship With God” Exodus 20:3

God invites us each into a relationship with Him. This relationship begins by accepting and recognizing His love for us and then responding with love and loyalty in return. (10 Struggles, ch. 1)

9 “Loving God As He Is” Exodus 20:4

God wants us to love and accept Him as He is and not as we would like Him to be. We can only know God the Father by placing our faith in Jesus His Son. Jesus is the way, the truth, the life. Only when we worship Jesus can we rightly worship God. (10 Struggles, ch. 2)

16 “Honor God’s Name” Exodus 20:7

The way you use a person’s name says a great deal about what you think of them. The way we use God’s name is a clear reflection of the position He has in our life. The third commandment is about much more than swearing. It is about learning to honor God and His name in all that we say and do. (10 Struggles, ch. 3)

God has given His Spirit to live in our lives and to enable us to be transformed. Maybe all we need to do is let Him. Maybe all we need do is respond favorably to God's invitation and enter into the relationship to which He is calling us.

I am a work in progress. I'm not there yet, but I look forward to the rest of the journey. I pray that you will allow God's Spirit to take you on that journey as well. May He transform you so that you truly do become His "friend" as He reveals himself more fully to you in the days and weeks to come.

Coming Sermons

Sermon Series on 10 Commandments:

Some of the small groups in the church are studying the book, The 10 Greatest Struggles of Your Life, by Colin S. Smith. Pastor Dan will coordinate his sermons beginning in October to address the topics covered by these groups each week. The 10 topics of this book are based on the 10 Commandments. He will attempt to address the topics on the Sunday prior to the week the small groups will address each chapter.

Oct. 2 “Invited Into A Relationship With God” Exodus 20:3

God invites us each into a relationship with Him. This relationship begins by accepting and recognizing His love for us and then responding with love and loyalty in return. (10 Struggles, ch. 1)

9 “Loving God As He Is” Exodus 20:4

God wants us to love and accept Him as He is and not as we would like Him to be. We can only know God the Father by placing our faith in Jesus His Son. Jesus is the way, the truth, the life. Only when we worship Jesus can we rightly worship God. (10 Struggles, ch. 2)

16 “Honor God’s Name” Exodus 20:7

The way you use a person’s name says a great deal about what you think of them. The way we use God’s name is a clear reflection of the position He has in our life. The third commandment is about much more than swearing. It is about learning to honor God and His name in all that we say and do. (10 Struggles, ch. 3)

At DeWitt's End

I had the privilege of attending the American Baptist annual region meeting in Effingham this past week. I don't always enjoy these kinds of meetings, but I really did enjoy it this time and I am encouraged with what is happening in the American Baptist world.

One of the speakers said something that really impacted me. He referenced two different passages from Exodus: Exodus 3:6 where God first appeared to Moses and Moses was so afraid that he covered his face; and Exodus 33:11 where it said that God used to speak to Moses face-to-face as one speaks to a friend. Then the speaker asked this question, and this is what really stuck with me: how do you go from covering your face out of fear to being so close to God that you are "a friend"?

It is a great question that really resonates in my heart. There are many times I feel the "separation" from God that Moses displayed when he covered his face in fear. There are many times I have wondered how I could possibly move from that position of separation and fear and, somehow, get closer to God – maybe close enough to actually be considered a face-to-face "friend" of God. The question hangs in my mind. How can I go make that transition?

The speaker didn't answer the question, he just left it hanging there for us to consider. I am still considering it. The problem is that the Bible doesn't tell us the answer. We see that God initiated the process by calling Moses to a task (leading the Israelites) and that as Moses responded, God began doing incredible things in Moses' life and revealed more and more of himself to Moses. But we don't see that Moses did anything to make it happen. God is the one who initiated the process and God is the one who transformed Moses from being a fearful shepherd who covered his face and made him to be a mighty spiritual leader who was a friend of God. Maybe that is the answer to the question. Maybe Moses didn't do anything to move from being separated from God to becoming a friend of God. Maybe God is the one who did it and that Moses merely allowed it to happen.

If that is the answer for Moses, then maybe it is the same answer for us as well. God wants to be in a close relationship with us. God has invited us. God has given His Spirit to live in our lives and to enable us to be transformed. Maybe all we need to do is let Him. The way you use a person’s name says a great deal about what you think of them. The way we use God’s name is a clear reflection of the position He has in our life. The third commandment is about much more than swearing. It is about learning to honor God and His name in all that we say and do. (10 Struggles, ch. 3)

At DeWitt's End

I had the privilege of attending the American Baptist annual region meeting in Effingham this past week. I don't always enjoy these kinds of meetings, but I really did enjoy it this time and I am encouraged with what is happening in the American Baptist world.

One of the speakers said something that really impacted me. He referenced two different passages from Exodus: Exodus 3:6 where God first appeared to Moses and Moses was so afraid that he covered his face; and Exodus 33:11 where it said that God used to speak to Moses face-to-face as one speaks to a friend. Then the speaker asked this question, and this is what really stuck with me: how do you go from covering your face out of fear to being so close to God that you are "a friend"?

It is a great question that really resonates in my heart. There are many times I feel the "separation" from God that Moses displayed when he covered his face in fear. There are many times I have wondered how I could possibly move from that position of separation and fear and, somehow, get closer to God – maybe close enough to actually be considered a face-to-face "friend" of God. The question hangs in my mind. How can I go make that transition?

The speaker didn't answer the question, he just left it hanging there for us to consider. I am still considering it. The problem is that the Bible doesn't tell us the answer. We see that God initiated the process by calling Moses to a task (leading the Israelites) and that as Moses responded, God began doing incredible things in Moses' life and revealed more and more of himself to Moses. But we don't see that Moses did anything to make it happen. God is the one who initiated the process and God is the one who transformed Moses from being a fearful shepherd who covered his face and made him to be a mighty spiritual leader who was a friend of God. Maybe that is the answer to the question. Maybe Moses didn't do anything to move from being separated from God to becoming a friend of God. Maybe God is the one who did it and that Moses merely allowed it to happen.

If that is the answer for Moses, then maybe it is the same answer for us as well. God wants to be in a close relationship with us. God has invited us. God has given His Spirit to live in our lives and to enable us to be transformed. Maybe all we need to do is let Him. Maybe all we need do is respond favorably to God's invitation and enter into the relationship to which He is calling us.

I am a work in progress. I'm not there yet, but I look forward to the rest of the journey. I pray that you will allow God's Spirit to take you on that journey as well. May He transform you so that you truly do become His "friend" as He reveals himself more fully to you in the days and weeks to come.

A fellow pilgrim on the journey to which God has called me,

Some of the small groups in the church are studying the book, The 10 Greatest Struggles of Your Life, by Colin S. Smith. Pastor Dan will coordinate his sermons beginning in October to address the topics covered by these groups each week. The 10 topics of this book are based on the 10 Commandments. He will attempt to address the topics on the Sunday prior to the week the small groups will address each chapter.

Oct. 2 “Invited Into A Relationship With God” Exodus 20:3

God invites us each into a relationship with Him. This relationship begins by accepting and recognizing His love for us and then responding with love and loyalty in return. (10 Struggles, ch. 1)

9 “Loving God As He Is” Exodus 20:4

God wants us to love and accept Him as He is and not as we would like Him to be. We can only know God the Father by placing our faith in Jesus His Son. Jesus is the way, the truth, the life. Only when we worship Jesus can we rightly worship God. (10 Struggles, ch. 2)

At DeWitt's End

I had the privilege of attending the American Baptist annual region meeting in Effingham this past week. I don't always enjoy these kinds of meetings, but I really did enjoy it this time and I am encouraged with what is happening in the American Baptist world.

One of the speakers said something that really impacted me. He referenced two different passages from Exodus: Exodus 3:6 where God first appeared to Moses and Moses was so afraid that he covered his face; and Exodus 33:11 where it said that God used to speak to Moses face-to-face as one speaks to a friend. Then the speaker asked this question, and this is what really stuck with me: how do you go from covering your face out of fear to being so close to God that you are "a friend"?

It is a great question that really resonates in my heart. There are many times I feel the "separation" from God that Moses displayed when he covered his face in fear. There are many times I have wondered how I could possibly move from that position of separation and fear and, somehow, get closer to God – maybe close enough to actually be considered a face-to-face "friend" of God. The question hangs in my mind. How can I go make that transition?

The speaker didn't answer the question, he just left it hanging there for us to consider. I am still considering it. The problem is that the Bible doesn't tell us the answer. We see that God initiated the process by calling Moses to a task (leading the Israelites) and that as Moses responded, God began doing incredible things in Moses' life and revealed more and more of himself to Moses. But we don't see that Moses did anything to make it happen. God is the one who initiated the process and God is the one who transformed Moses from being a fearful shepherd who covered his face and made him to be a mighty spiritual leader who was a friend of God. Maybe that is the answer to the question. Maybe Moses didn't do anything to move from being separated from God to becoming a friend of God. Maybe God is the one who did it and that Moses merely allowed it to happen.

If that is the answer for Moses, then maybe it is the same answer for us as well. God wants to be in a close relationship with us. God has invited us. God has given His Spirit to live in our lives and to enable us to be transformed. Maybe all we need to do is let Him. Maybe all we need do is respond favorably to God's invitation and enter into the relationship to which He is calling us.

I am a work in progress. I'm not there yet, but I look forward to the rest of the journey. I pray that you will allow God's Spirit to take you on that journey as well. May He transform you so that you truly do become His "friend" as He reveals himself more fully to you in the days and weeks to come.

A fellow pilgrim on the journey to which God has called me,

Coming Sermons

Sermon Series on 10 Commandments:

Some of the small groups in the church are studying the book, The 10 Greatest Struggles of Your Life, by Colin S. Smith. Pastor Dan will coordinate his sermons beginning in October to address the topics covered by these groups each week. The 10 topics of this book are based on the 10 Commandments. He will attempt to address the topics on the Sunday prior to the week the small groups will address each chapter.

Oct. 2 “Invited Into A Relationship With God” Exodus 20:3

God invites us each into a relationship with Him. This relationship begins by accepting and recognizing His love for us and then responding with love and loyalty in return. (10 Struggles, ch. 1)

9 “Loving God As He Is” Exodus 20:4

God wants us to love and accept Him as He is and not as we would like Him to be. We can only know God the Father by placing our faith in Jesus His Son. Jesus is the way, the truth, the life. Only when we worship Jesus can we rightly worship God. (10 Struggles, ch. 2)

16 “Honor God’s Name” Exodus 20:7

The way you use a person’s name says a great deal about what you think of them. The way we use God’s name is a clear reflection of the position He has in our life. The third commandment is about much more than swearing. It is about learning to honor God and His name in all that we say and do. (10 Struggles, ch. 3)

At DeWitt's End

I had the privilege of attending the American Baptist annual region meeting in Effingham this past week. I don't always enjoy these kinds of meetings, but I really did enjoy it this time and I am encouraged with what is happening in the American Baptist world.

One of the speakers said something that really impacted me. He referenced two different passages from Exodus: Exodus 3:6 where God first appeared to Moses and Moses was so afraid that he covered his face; and Exodus 33:11 where it said that God used to speak to Moses face-to-face as one speaks to a friend. Then the speaker asked this question, and this is what really stuck with me: how do you go from covering your face out of fear to being so close to God that you are "a friend"?

It is a great question that really resonates in my heart. There are many times I feel the "separation" from God that Moses displayed when he covered his face in fear. There are many times I have wondered how I could possibly move from that position of separation and fear and, somehow, get closer to God – maybe close enough to actually be considered a face-to-face "friend" of God. The question hangs in my mind. How can I go make that transition?

The speaker didn't answer the question, he just left it hanging there for us to consider. I am still considering it. The problem is that the Bible doesn't tell us the answer. We see that God initiated the process by calling Moses to a task (leading the Israelites) and that as Moses responded, God began doing incredible things in Moses' life and revealed more and more of himself to Moses. But we don't see that Moses did anything to make it happen. God is the one who initiated the process and God is the one who transformed Moses from being a fearful shepherd who covered his face and made him to be a mighty spiritual leader who was a friend of God. Maybe that is the answer to the question. Maybe Moses didn't do anything to move from being separated from God to becoming a friend of God. Maybe God is the one who did it and that Moses merely allowed it to happen.

If that is the answer for Moses, then maybe it is the same answer for us as well. God wants to be in a close relationship with us. God has invited us. God has given His Spirit to live in our lives and to enable us to be transformed. Maybe all we need to do is let Him. Maybe all we need do is respond favorably to God's invitation and enter into the relationship to which He is calling us.

I am a work in progress. I'm not there yet, but I look forward to the rest of the journey. I pray that you will allow God's Spirit to take you on that journey as well. May He transform you so that you truly do become His "friend" as He reveals himself more fully to you in the days and weeks to come.

A fellow pilgrim on the journey to which God has called me,

Coming Sermons

Sermon Series on 10 Commandments:

Some of the small groups in the church are studying the book, The 10 Greatest Struggles of Your Life, by Colin S. Smith. Pastor Dan will coordinate his sermons beginning in October to address the topics covered by these groups each week. The 10 topics of this book are based on the 10 Commandments. He will attempt to address the topics on the Sunday prior to the week the small groups will address each chapter.

Oct. 2 “Invited Into A Relationship With God” Exodus 20:3

God invites us each into a relationship with Him. This relationship begins by accepting and recognizing His love for us and then responding with love and loyalty in return. (10 Struggles, ch. 1)

9 “Loving God As He Is” Exodus 20:4

God wants us to love and accept Him as He is and not as we would like Him to be. We can only know God the Father by placing our faith in Jesus His Son. Jesus is the way, the truth, the life. Only when we worship Jesus can we rightly worship God. (10 Struggles, ch. 2)

16 “Honor God’s Name” Exodus 20:7

The way you use a person’s name says a great deal about what you think of them. The way we use God’s name is a clear reflection of the position He has in our life. The third commandment is about much more than swearing. It is about learning to honor God and His name in all that we say and do. (10 Struggles, ch. 3)

The question hangs in my mind. How can I go make that transition?

The speaker didn't answer the question, he just left it hanging there for us to consider. I am still considering it. The problem is that the Bible doesn't tell us the answer. We see that God initiated the process by calling Moses to a task (leading the Israelites) and that as Moses responded, God began doing incredible things in Moses' life and revealed more and more of himself to Moses. But we don't see that Moses did anything to make it happen. God is the one who initiated the process and God is the one who transformed Moses from being a fearful shepherd who covered his face and made him to be a mighty spiritual leader who was a friend of God. Maybe that is the answer to the question. Maybe Moses didn't do anything to move from being separated from God to becoming a friend of God. Maybe God is the one who did it and that Moses merely allowed it to happen.

If that is the answer for Moses, then maybe it is the same answer for us as well. God wants to be in a close relationship with us. God has invited us. God has given His Spirit to live in our lives and to enable us to be transformed. Maybe all we need to do is let Him. Maybe all we need do is respond favorably to God's invitation and enter into the relationship to which He is calling us.

I am a work in progress. I'm not there yet, but I look forward to the rest of the journey. I pray that you will allow God's Spirit to take you on that journey as well. May He transform you so that you truly do become His "friend" as He reveals himself more fully to you in the days and weeks to come.

A fellow pilgrim on the journey to which God has called me,

Coming Sermons

Sermon Series on 10 Commandments:

Some of the small groups in the church are studying the book, The 10 Greatest Struggles of Your Life, by Colin S. Smith. Pastor Dan will coordinate his sermons beginning in October to address the topics covered by these groups each week. The 10 topics of this book are based on the 10 Commandments. He will attempt to address the topics on the Sunday prior to the week the small groups will address each chapter.

Oct. 2 “Invited Into A Relationship With God” Exodus 20:3

God invites us each into a relationship with Him. This relationship begins by accepting and recognizing His love for us and then responding with love and loyalty in return. (10 Struggles, ch. 1)

9 “Loving God As He Is” Exodus 20:4

God wants us to love and accept Him as He is and not as we would like Him to be. We can only know God the Father by placing our faith in Jesus His Son. Jesus is the way, the truth, the life. Only when we worship Jesus can we rightly worship God. (10 Struggles, ch. 2)

16 “Honor God’s Name” Exodus 20:7

The way you use a person’s name says a great deal about what you think of them. The way we use God’s name is a clear reflection of the position He has in our life. The third commandment is about much more than swearing. It is about learning to honor God and His name in all that we say and do. (10 Struggles, ch. 3)

At DeWitt's End

I had the privilege of attending the American Baptist annual region meeting in Effingham this past week. I don't always enjoy these kinds of meetings, but I really did enjoy it this time and I am encouraged with what is happening in the American Baptist world.

One of the speakers said something that really impacted me. He referenced two different passages from Exodus: Exodus 3:6 where God first appeared to Moses and Moses was so afraid that he covered his face; and Exodus 33:11 where it said that God used to speak to Moses face-to-face as one speaks to a friend. Then the speaker asked this question, and this is what really stuck with me: how do you go from covering your face out of fear to being so close to God that you are "a friend"?

It is a great question that really resonates in my heart. There are many times I feel the "separation" from God that Moses displayed when he covered his face in fear. There are many times I have wondered how I could possibly move from that position of separation and fear and, somehow, get closer to God – maybe close enough to actually be considered a face-to-face "friend" of God. The question hangs in my mind. How can I go make that transition?

The speaker didn't answer the question, he just left it hanging there for us to consider. I am still considering it. The problem is that the Bible doesn't tell us the answer. We see that God initiated the process by calling Moses to a task (leading the Israelites) and that as Moses responded, God began doing incredible things in Moses' life and revealed more and more of himself to Moses. He will attempt to address the topics on the Sunday prior to the week the small groups will address each chapter.

Oct. 2 “Invited Into A Relationship With God” Exodus 20:3

God invites us each into a relationship with Him. This relationship begins by accepting and recognizing His love for us and then responding with love and loyalty in return. (10 Struggles, ch. 1)

9 “Loving God As He Is” Exodus 20:4

God wants us to love and accept Him as He is and not as we would like Him to be. We can only know God the Father by placing our faith in Jesus His Son. Jesus is the way, the truth, the life. Only when we worship Jesus can we rightly worship God. (10 Struggles, ch. 2)

16 “Honor God’s Name” Exodus 20:7

The way you use a person’s name says a great deal about what you think of them. The way we use God’s name is a clear reflection of the position He has in our life. The third commandment is about much more than swearing. It is about learning to honor God and His name in all that we say and do. (10 Struggles, ch. 3)
